16. Abstract (Limit: 200 words) REFLECTING ON THE MORE THAN FOUR YEAR LIFE OF THE NATIONAL VIETNAM VETERANS READJUSTMENT STUDY EVOKES IN US A KALEIDOSCOPE OF MEMORIES AND THEIR ASSOCIATED EMOTIONS. CONDUCT OF THE READJUSTMENT STUDY HAS IN SOME WAYS RECAPITULATED THE VIETNAM ERA. THE STUDY WAS CONDUCTED UNDER CONTRACT NUMBER V101(93)P-1040 FROM THE VETERANS ADMINISTRATION (VA). TO ACHIEVE THE OBJECTIVES SET FORTH IN THE CONGRESSIONAL MANDATE, THIS STUDY WAS CARRIED OUT BY STAFF FROM A CONSORTIUM OF ORGANIZATIONS. THE NEED FOR BROAD-BASED INPUT INTO THE DESIGN AND OPERATION OF THE STUDY RESULTED FROM THE CONFLEUNCE OF SEVERAL FACTORS: THE SCIENTIFIC COMPLEXITY OF THE STUDY'S SUBJECT MATTER; THE POTENTIAL POLITICAL AND PROGRAMMATIC IMPLEMENTATIONS OF THE FINDINGS; AND THE INTENSE AND GENUINE EMOTIONAL INVESTMENT OF SOME IN THEIR BELIEFS ABOUT VIETNAM VETERANS, DESPITE THE SOMETIMES NON-SYSTEMATIC BASIS OF THOSE BELIEFS. THE EXECUTIVE SUMMARY IS PROVIDED IN THREE PARTS. IN PART A, HIGHLIGHTS OF SOME MAJOR FINDINGS ARE PROVIDED IN BRIEF SUMMARY FORM. IN PART B, STUDY FINDINGS FROM THE VARIOUS CHAPTERS OF THE REPORT ARE INTEGRATED TO ADDRESS DIRECTLY THE SPECIFIC ISSUES RAISED IN PUBLIC LAW 98-160, THE ENABLING LEGISLATION FOR THE NATIONAL VIETNAM VETERANS READJUSTMENT STUDY. PART C PROVIDES A CHAPTER BY CHAPTER SUMMARY OF THE ENTIRE REPORT, WHICH IS FOUR VOLUMES.

We've just been talking about events that happen to most people. Now we'd like to talk about unusual events that are extraordinarily stressful or disturbing--things that do not happen to most people but when they do they can be frightening, upsetting, or distressing to almost everyone. By that I mean things like being in a war or heavy combat, being physically assaulted or raped, being in a major earthquake or flood, or a very serious accident or fire, seeing other people killed or dead, or some other type of disastrous event. During your life, have any of the following types of things happened to you or have you seen any of these things happen?

S12. Problems often come up in life. Sometimes they're personal problems-- people are very unhappy, or nervous and irritable all the time. Sometimes they're problems in a marriage--a husband and wife just can't get along with each other. Or, sometimes it's a personal problem with a child or a job.

Sometimes when people have problems like that, they go someplace for help. Sometimes they go to a doctor or a minister. Sometimes they go to a special place for handling personal problems--like a psychiatrist or a marriage counselor or social agency or clinic. How about you-- have you ever gone anywhere like that for advice or help with any personal problems?

PROTOCOL AND SPECIFICATIONS FOR TRAUMATIC EVENTS
BOOKLET AND LIST

Traumatic events are covered in questions M13 through M23. After reading the introduction at the top of the page, ask each of the 11 questions listed and record a "Yes" or "No" response for each one. Then, for each of the "Yes" responses, use the booklet to obtain and record some details of each event. Every event that goes in the booklet must also be recorded on the list. It is essential that the event numbers in the booklet, on the list, and, if applicable, in the DIS, must match for any given event.

Traumatic events are defined in the introduction to these questions. When you read this introduction, be sure to emphasize the underlined words to impress on the respondent that we are asking about extraordinary and disastrous events. Once you have done that, however, the respondent is the sole judge of whether a particular event was traumatic or not. Do NOT try to explain or embellish or define what is meant, beyond what is included in the introduction. Of course, you can repeat the introductory paragraph for the respondent at any time you think it would be helpful.

There must be an answer recorded for every booklet question; however, not all of the questions are appropriate for every event. For example, it is unlikely that someone would die a natural death in a sniper attack or lose substantial property as a victim of child abuse. If some answers are obvious, record them and go on. List to the respondent. Use your good sense. And, as always, IF IN DOUBT, ASK.

In response to question M13 about specific combat or war-related events, the respondent may say that the "whole war was traumatic" or "just being in Vietnam was traumatic." Probe for specific incidents by asking "Is there any particular event that sticks in your mind?" If the respondent insists on "the whole thing" or "Vietnam in general" and can't pick out a specific incident, accept that and enter it in the booklet and on the list. The questions in the booklet may seem awkward when they are asked about "the whole thing" but do the best you can. The respondent will usually understand. In addition, these questions might remind the respondent of a particular event. If they do, record it on the next page as a discrete event with its own event number and booklet responses.

A few of the booklet questions deserve particular attention. Question 1 reads "Please give me a couple of words we can use as a title to refer to this event." We have phrased the question this way in order to cut down on the tendency of some veterans to go into great detail about these events. Detailed descriptions of the events really are not necessary for the purposes of this study. The details we need will be elicited by the booklet questions. A descriptive title such as "sniper attack" or "helicopter crash" is ideal.

Question 3 asks for the ending date or the date of the most recent occurrence for multiple occurrence events. For example, a respondent may have been a victim of child abuse that went on for months or even years. Get the dates of the first and last occurrences in questions 2 and 3.

Question 5 reads "Was what you saw very bloody or grotesque?" We mean that literally. If they didn't see it in person, the answer is no.

Question 11. In most cases, the events described to you will be one-time events, unrelated to others of that type. For example, someone might have been in several serious accidents--say a plane crash and 2 car accidents. These events are single occurrence events but are of the same type. Each would be recorded on a separate page in the booklet. However, if there have been several or many related events, you would record yes on question 11 and put a note in the margin saying "typical of many" or "multiple occurrence event" and would not "record on next page in booklet."

Another thing that can occur is that respondents may say "yes" to more than one of the questions, M13 through M23, in the Stressful and Traumatic Life Events section of the questionnaire in reference to the same event. For example, if someone says yes to question 14--serious accident or crash involving car, plane, etc.--and to question 20--being in serious danger of losing your life, etc. You would enter an event--let's say it's a car crash and it's event number 3--in the booklet for the serious accident or crash. Then later you would ask about an event for question 20--being in serious danger--and the respondent might say "Well that was the car crash I already told you about." Use a new page in the booklet so that it has its own event number and then write "same as event #3" on the line where the event name goes. Also write "same as event #3" on the Traumatic Events List so that your event numbers don't become mismatched.

When you get to the DIS, the booklet and list will once again be needed. Questions 61 through 166 cover post-traumatic stress disorder, and it is in this part of the questionnaire that the list becomes important. As an example, question 88 of the DIS. This question reads "Has there ever been a period of a week or more when you had repeated bad dreams or nightmares?" If the respondent says "Yes," you will be asking certain follow-up questions including questions 89 through 93. Question 89 reads "Did the bad dreams or nightmares remind you in some way of an experience or experiences that you had?" If the respondent says "Yes," hand him or her the list and ask question 90 "Are any of the experiences about which you were having the bad dreams or nightmares on this list?" If the respondent says "Yes," ask question 91 "Which ones?" You then prompt with "Are there any others?" Get the event numbers of all the events on the list about which the respondent was having repeated bad dreams or nightmares. Then ask question 92 "Are there any experiences about which you were having the bad dreams or nightmares that are not on this list?" If the respondent says "Yes," ask question 93 "Which experiences about which you were having the bad dreams or nightmares do we not have on this list?" and enter them in the booklet and on the list.

NATIONAL SURVEY OF THE VIETNAM GENERATION

The United States' military involvement in the Vietnam war ended over ten years ago. However, the effects of our involvement continue and many questions remain unanswered. The years during and after the war were significant ones not only for those who served in Vietnam but also for their families.

At the urging of many citizens, the U.S. Congress has directed that a nationwide study be conducted of Vietnam veterans and other affected people to find out how people feel about their lives both during and after the Vietnam war and, especially, how they're doing these days. As you may know, your (husband/wife/partner) was selected at random to participate in this very important study and has already been interviewed. We are now interviewing members of veterans' families to obtain additional information about how Vietnam veterans are getting along today and how you and other family members are affected by (his/her) experiences both during and after the war.

Your participation is completely voluntary and you may refuse to answer any questions or stop participating at any time without penalty. While there may be no direct benefits to you except for the token of appreciation, I think you'll find the questions interesting and will want to give them careful thought.
